Dear US Postal Regulatory Commission,

It was recently brought to my attention that the Postal Service plans make changes to their mailbox service in including the use of a street address, the ability to receive parcels from UPS and FedEx, and email notification of mail receipt.

The post office's actions are unacceptable and these actions are not fair. If they pursue to make changes to their current mailbox service, it will have a significant impact on our network's ability to attract and retain our customers. A government organization should not copy The UPS Store's mailbox model; this could have a potentially crippling effect on over 4,300 franchise owners across the country. Small business owners are working very hard to recover from these hard economic times and this certainly will not help.

I hope that you take our plea into consideration and do not agree to the changes the US Postal Service wants to implement.

Sincerely,

Parvin Mehrtash
Owner
